Cool never sounded so hot:

Award-winning jazz singer/composer Kathy Sanborn takes a deep dive into the full spectrum of love with her brand-new release Recollecting You

On her eighth album the multi-talented vocalist focuses her creative vision on relationships with lovers, family and friends

Kathy Sanborn is a proven talent as a singer/composer/lyricist/producer/arranger, and in her newest release Recollecting You, she more than proves she knows her way around a love song.

The nine original tunes address tender emotions from exultant to bittersweet, whether in the moment, anticipated, or recollected. Sanborn's velvety voice caresses the lyrics, musing on deep relationships including the romantic, maternal, familial, and friendly varieties. Regardless of the lyrical point of view, Sanborn creates a consistent mood while exploring the rhymes and rhythms of each tune, demonstrating that she's a storyteller of remarkable subtlety.

Highlights from Recollecting You include:

"The Boys Are Back Again," a flirtatious cooker that demands repeated listens.

"Recollecting You," a song so nice Sanborn had to sing it twice. It's introduced early in the album with poetically nostalgic lyrics, then reprised in a vocalese "Snowfall Version" as the CD's finale.

"Reflections in the Rain" presents a moody portrait of New York after dark, as seen at the end of a love affair.

"Another Sultry Night": Sanborn's vocal treatment ensures the song lives up to its name. The simple but effective accompaniment lets her voice shine.

An international cast of creative musicians joins Sanborn on Recollecting You, including Keerthy Narayanan, who produced the album, wrote the musical arrangements (Sanborn arranged the vocals), and also plays keyboards and bass. The India-based Narayanan, who also worked with Sanborn on her 2015 recording Lights of Laniakea, is recognized for his contributions to the New Age Grammy winner Winds of Samsara. Also based in India are pianist Aman Almeida and drummer Abhinav Khanna. Rounding out the band stateside are guitarists Vito Gregoli and Ciro Hurtado, a Latin Grammy nominee; trumpeter Wayne Ricci, and violinist Rocio Marron.

Sanborn, a California-born 2015 American Songwriting Award winner, counts cool school vocalists such as Anita O'Day, Chris Connor and June Christy among her influences. Like them, Sanborn has a distinctive creative edge that drives her to push the music forward.

Recollecting You should bring Kathy Sanborn's vocal and songwriting talents to the attention of the wider audience she seems destined to reach.
